

Homophones

Choose the ~~write~~ ^{right} word

There – in, at or to that place, e.g. if you can replace there with here then you are using the right word.

Their – a noun belongs to them, e.g. “Their leader wasn’t convinced he was making the right decisions.”

They’re – contraction of they are, e.g. the apostrophe brings words together.

Your – a possessive pronoun, it owned by you, e.g. “Your planner.”

You’re – a contraction of you are, before a verb, e.g. “You’re playing tomorrow.”

To – a preposition, e.g. “To be or not to be; to work together.”

Two – a number, e.g. “It has two functions: making tea and cleaning itself.”

Too – a word meaning also, e.g. “I thought that too.”

It’s – contraction of it is, e.g. it’s happening tomorrow.

Its – a pronoun to show possession, e.g. “The animal wanted its food.”

No – the opposite of yes.

Know – to recognise and identify with something, e.g. “You think you know, but you have no idea!”